Honk if you don't want asphalt plant

LAURA HENDRICK

Staff Reporter

Pumping their signs in front of streams of long weekend traffic, about 40 people waged a protest against the proposed Bark Lake asphalt plant in front of the Ministry of Natural Resources office last Friday.

Public response was largely positive as protesters gained countless honks of support from passing cars.

The protest, which varied in size and location, began in Minden at 2 p.m. then moved to County Road 503 by the proposed site.

"I hate it. It's a really stupid idea," said Howard Venning, a Toronto resident who has been visiting a friend's cottage on Salerno Lake for more than 25 years. "It seems unnecessary in such a beautiful spot."

His wife Angela echoed this concern. She said the heavy trucks, blasting, and noise from the current gravel pit are

Get used to this wacky summer weather

LAURA HENDRICK

Staff Reporter

Reports of wacky weather in Haliburton are on the rise but so too is the area's population. Geoff Coulson, a warning preparedness meteorologist with Environment Canada, says that as more cottagers flock to the Highlands, more attention is being paid to "pop up storms". These storms can turn a cloudless blue sky into a thunder-shower within the span of a few hours.

"Traditionally, the really active spot for hurricanes and tornadoes is the corridor between Windsor and Barrie," he said. "But we're seeing an increase in people living northeast of Toronto, making a lot more people aware of this kind of weather."

While a burst of heavy rain on a sunny day may seem to defy logic, the two often come hand in hand when humidity is up.

"For this time of year, you'll see very wide variations in weather," said Coulson, noting that in Haliburton the summer severe weather season stretches from late April to early October.

During this time, he said that people could experience a week's worth of weather fluctuations in one day. Residents and visitors might want to think twice about leaving a car window open, or postponing a swim. There is no guarantee the morning sun will still be shining in the afternoon.

This spring has been a warm one for the area, with temperatures staying about one or two degrees above average. Coulson expects this trend to continue into July and August, making for a hot and dry summer.

Although he predicts less rainfall in Haliburton overall, the of Haliburton beach

Rotary Beach in Haliburton was closed for the second time this summer because of high e.coli levels.

It is the only beach in the county where swimming was discouraged last week.

The beach was posted by the health unit after water samples from the week of June 25 detected high bacteria levels. When a beach is posted, people are advised not to swim there.

The Haliburton beach had been posted a few weeks ago but was re-opened when bacteria levels returned to an acceptable level.

JDHES grads prepare themselves for high school

LAURA HENDRICK

Staff Reporter

In between math, science and geography class, the staff of J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School managed to send their students off with one extra bit of knowledge: they will be fine. At last Thursday's graduation ceremony, the gymnasium filled with students was brimming with confidence.

A combination of close friendships and itchy feet seemed to make the transition from elementary school to high school altogether exciting.

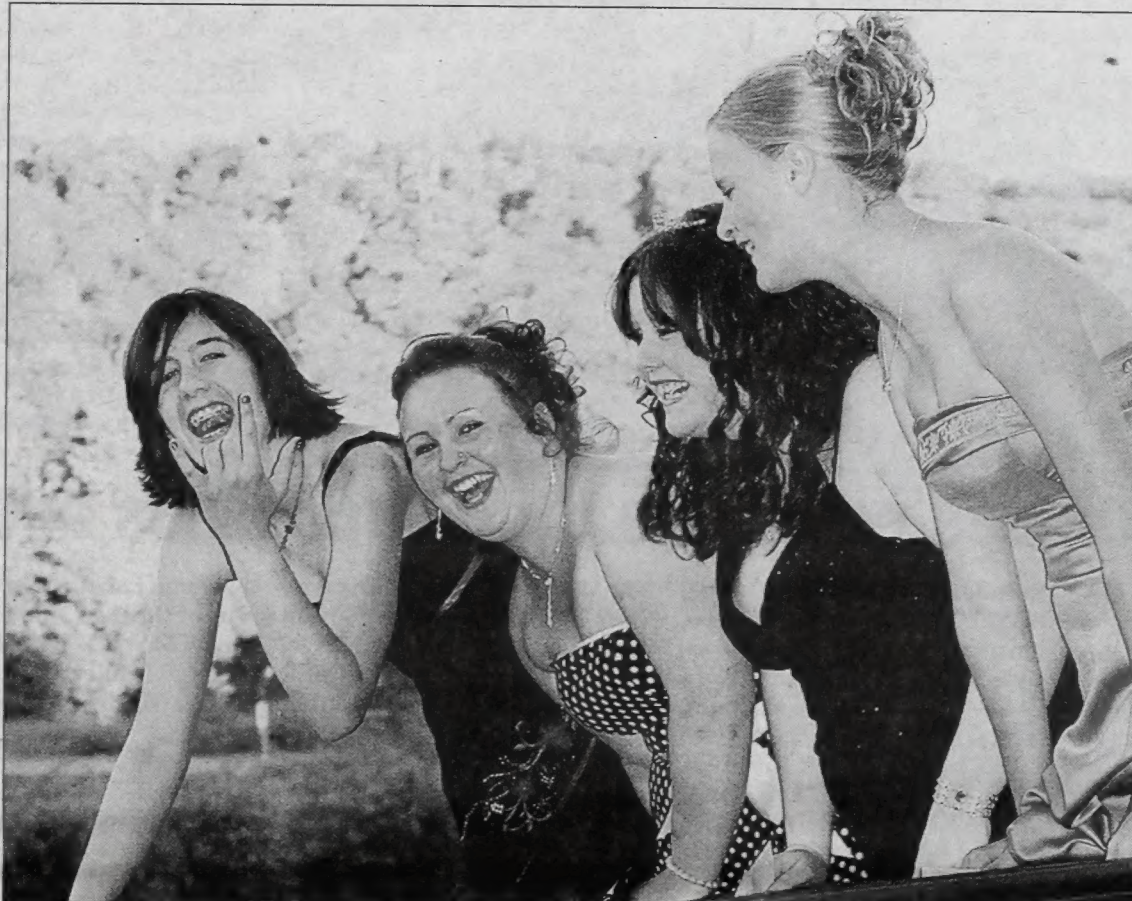

"We're walking out of it together," said Valedictorian Nicole Jennings. Noting that many of her classmates would be facing new levels of peer pressure at the bottom of the totem pole at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, she encouraged them to stay true to themselves. Holding her chin up, she recalled a quote: "Those who mind don't matter and those who matter don't mind."

It was a sentiment the graduates applauded whole-heartedly.

There were countless times that the students broke out into cheer during the ceremony. As each young person grabbed hold of a diploma, friends would dive into the aisle to slap hands.

Standing in a long green graduate's gown that matched those of her classmates, Nicole reminisced about younger days as a student.

"Remember when our feet didn't touch the ground at our desks? Or when we didn't know how to spell graduation?"

In coming years, students might be able to say: Remember the days when we didn't have French Immersion? This class was made of many trailblazers who completed the county's first round of the program.

The night allowed students to look back on such journeys with memory books that documented significant points in their past. After the ceremony, students, staff and family members filled the library where the scrapbooks were waiting to be cracked open.

Jeannine Espie gave a long look at each page of her daughter Katelyn's book.

"They're a treasure," she said. "Reading them, I learn a lot about my daughter. Some of the stuff she doesn't tell us."

Katelyn didn't appear to be concerned with the exposure. When she found her mother by the memory books, she began to leaf through hers with her, telling the stories behind different photographs.

The reception also gave parents the chance to congratulate their award winners. Standing by a table of cookies and squares, Reagan Bevrige received words of encouragement from his father, Keith. "I'm very proud of him," Bevrige said of his son's Citizenship Award. Reagan took the praise with modesty, claiming that all he did was "be friendly with everybody."

As awards were given out, the group not only clapped, they shrieked with delight. The eruption of screams was enough to upstage an Oscar ceremony.

Just as the class shared in each other's achievements, many of the awards were shared among two or more students.

The award for Top Athlete went to Jenna Dibblee, Paige Roberts, and Ian Bottum. The Leadership Award was given to Alyssa Hobden and Andrew Elia. The OPC Award for Student Leavership was handed out to Jenna Dibblee. The Citizenship Award went to Riley Maracle, Reagan Beveridge and Ian Bottum. The last two awards were for Academic Excellent and Outstanding distinction. The first went to Anna Schur, Nicole Jennings, Joshua Wright, and Lindsay Pogue. The latter was given to Paige Roberts and Jenna Dibblee.

Seven grads say goodbye to their Wilberforce school days

GREG HOEKSTRA

Staff Reporter

Last Thursday was an emotional day for seven students at Wilberforce Elementary. Not only did it mark the beginning of summer but it was also the end of their time at the tightly-knit public school.

Starting next fall, Christina Berning, Alana Coty, Raylene Dooley, Cody Lawr, Jordan Manus, Josh Payne, and Samantha Vanier will all begin studies at J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School in Haliburton but last week their parents, friends and teachers gave them a grand send-off during a graduation ceremony at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre.

"Today we can all be proud of the dreams and aspirations set, and met, by our students," said WES Principal Joani Croft. "Langston Hughes, an American poet, once wrote, 'Hold fast to dreams, for if dreams die, life is a broken-winged bird, that cannot fly.' May each of you hold fast to your dreams."

Croft also took the opportunity to thank her staff, as well as the entire large number of volunteers who dedicate their time to making WES such a great place to learn.

"Wilberforce is special," she said. "Our staff may be few in numbers but the teachers and EAs are mighty in their caring and commitment."

"The statement that 'it takes a village to raise a child' is made evident here by people of all ages working together as an extended family to achieve goals."

Congratulations to this year's graduates, as well as the winners of the Grade 6 awards, including:

- Academic – Christina Berning
- Leadership – Raylene Dooley
- Citizenship – Jordan Manus
- Most Improved Student – Samantha Vanier
- Perseverance – Alana Coty

Encore! Encore!

A few years ago, the Echo did a profile of Eagle Lake cottager Mike Jaycock, who had just received a Queen's Jubilee Medal in recognition of all his volunteer work in the Hamilton area. The article predicted that there would be a lineup of organizations asking for his help when Jaycock fulfilled his dream of retiring to the Highlands.

On Saturday morning, listeners to the inaugural Highlands Radio Almanac were thrilled that 100.9 Canoe FM had been first in line. Jaycock, president of the community radio station's board of directors, had spent months dreaming up the special program which will travel from community to community every Saturday morning this summer. He inspired fellow volunteers to get on board, lined up locations and guests, and then researched what equipment was needed to record the show live. Apart from a few minutes of silence as the switch was made from the Canoe FM station to the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre in Wilberforce, the show went off without a hitch.

Jaycock was inspired to create the Highlands Radio Almanac after watching the movie version of Prairie Home Companion. (The local viewing of the movie was thanks to another local volunteer group, Highlands Media Arts.) Prairie Home Companion started as a weekly showcase of Garrison Keillor's dry humour and folksy taste in music. He tells the story of Lake Wobegon, where despite the fact that "the women are strong, the men are good looking, and all the children are above average", the townsfolk still manage to get themselves into a few awkwardly funny situations. Prairie Home Companion has been the model for other radio programs, including Stuart McLean's Vinyl Café, after which Jaycock modelled the Highlands Radio Almanac. Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery and the Almanac is paying Prairie Home Companion and Vinyl Café a heartfelt compliment indeed.

The show was marvellous, and not just for those filling the crowded auditorium. Conversation flowed easily between Jaycock, his co-host Joan Cameron and their guests. The music had a real down-home flavour. The humour was soft and gentle. And, most importantly, the Highlands Radio Almanac was an entertaining and informative showcase of all the many talented people who have shared Jaycock's passion for making the Highlands a stimulating place to live and cottage.

Retirement can be a funny word when applied to life after work in the Highlands. If you want, it can mean relaxing at home, free of responsibility and obligation. If you're Mike Jaycock it can mean finding new fulfillments and challenges. He proves, once again, that the old myth that you have to be born here to be accepted is long gone – if it ever even existed.

Downsizing

THESE DAYS, for most outdoorsmen, size seems to be everything. It's true! Everyone wants to lay claim to having caught or shot a record-book animal.

If you ask me, we have this all wrong. After all, very little skill is needed to hit an animal that's the size of a small pickup truck. It's a huge target! Likewise, big fish, when encountered, have great appetites and will take any lure that dares to enter their personal space. Then they practically set the hook on themselves.

That's why I never bother with those big grotesque beasts.

I'm actually of a contrary opinion; I think it's about time we admit that it's far sportier to try for the small ones. And, if we keep record books at all, they ought to be reserved for the smallest creatures.

If this were so, the three-inch smallmouth I caught the other day might be recognized as an Ontario, perhaps even world, record. And rightly so. Everyone who witnessed it could not believe that a fish that small was capable of hitting a lure at all.

Now I'm not one to brag but I think it's fair to note that this incredible angling feat took considerable skill. I mean, everyone else was catching bass in the one- to three-pound range without any effort at all.

This startling lack of selectivity is the sure sign of an amateur!

While those anglers were catching bigger fish, I could have fit a limit of stunted fish in my shirt pocket - with room to spare. Let's see the average angler accomplish that!

Of course, this type of thing isn't new to me. I routinely take stunted bucks during deer season. Whereas big bucks are referred to as trophy bucks, most hunters refer to the ones I shoot as trophy bucks. This is not easy.

I'm sure I don't need to point out the marksmanship required to hit a deer that small. And also, let me remind you that everyone in camp appreciates a fellow hunter shooting a really small deer. For one, these small deer can be carried out of the woods under one arm. Secondly, when someone shoots a small button buck, it immediately boosts the morale of that guy who shot a spindly fork horn. It's why people are always inviting me to their camp.

All I'm trying to say is that we sportsmen have fallen prey to the bigger is better mentality and I think it's time we reversed that demoralizing and unrealistic mindset.

Smaller fish and game, as a rule, taste better and incur less in taxidermy fees too. Don't think catching small fish is easy either. If the unskilled angler hooked a three-inch smallmouth, they'd have trouble even recognizing that it was on. Most are only discovered when pulling up line to occasionally clear weeds.

Not me. When I feel the slightest tap, I set the hook. And, I'm usually rewarded with a real runt. My wife says that the fish is too.

So, downsize your expectations and you'll be happier - so long as you remember to check the front pocket of your shirt after each trip to the lake.

Of mice and men

THE SHRIEKS THUNDERED down the hall just as Jack was entering the building. It was a new job, the first since graduating from university and Jack wondered if the cries were a harbinger of things to come. Born and raised in the city, Jack had moved with his parents when they took early retirement and decided to make the cottage their year round residence. To his surprise, Jack had found a good job in the area.

sharon

The commotion greeting him that first day had given him temporary second thoughts. However once he learned his supervisor was mortally afraid of mice but otherwise fine, it all worked out. Only later in conversation did Jack learn about mice. He was told they were dirty, invasive and carried diseases. He was warned mice could squeeze into almost any opening and once inside a building, wreak massive destruction.

Then one Saturday his parents, taking a rare break from their endless home renovations, shared their experiences. First his mother told him of how for years she had dreaded opening the cottage in the spring because there would be stinking mouse nests in dresser drawers, sometimes complete with dead baby mice. Toilet paper and bits of bedding were shredded and then packed into large fluffy bundles of filth. His mother demonstrated how she gagged as she carried the drawers out into the bush and dumped them far from the cottage. It became an unpleasant rite of spring.

His father spoke of entering the cottage after the winter hiatus and being hit with what he called the stink of mice in the closed up building. Although every year he plugged any crack or gap with steel wool, the vermin still managed to find a way in. Both parents described opening kitchen cupboards and drawers to find mouse droppings everywhere. At this point he began to understand his parents' almost slavish dedication to renovating the old place into a proper house. As his father stated, they had no intention of sharing the rest of their lives with the dirty little beasts.

Time passed and Jack started dating Eliza, a young woman he had met at the office. One evening as they sat eating pie in her kitchen, Jack caught sight of something small and dark flash across the floor. "Did I just see —," he began.

"Yes Jack," Eliza said. "That's Stumpy, my resident mouse."

To hide his surprise at her composure he asked, "Why do you call it Stumpy?"

When Eliza had first realized she had mice in her house, she had set a trap only to trap two tiny feet which the mouse had chewed off to escape. Eliza had been so aghast at this that she got rid of the trap. A few days later she cornered the mouse and watched sadly as it tried to climb up the wall to escape her only to slide backward with every effort because it had no feet. So she named it Stumpy and let it go. She just didn't have the heart to hurt it any more.

Jack didn't know what to say. Here was yet another twist to the mouse in the house saga. He told her all he had heard about mice and then they both decided mice, like politics and religion, would be off-limits for conversation with Jack's parents. It just was not worth the hassle.

letters to the editor

Slow down, back off

To the Editor:

This is a brief explanation of some driving habits of others for any tourists, cottagers or local scofflaws who apparently cannot grasp the 60 km zone on the entrances to Haliburton Village. I don't know who decided we had to have them, and I wish they had told the OPP so they could check them once in while, but they are the law and older people tend to follow the rules.

While I am not 80, I know that people who keep to the speed limits do so for a very good reason: if they are stopped by police for any reason they may be required to take a written and driving test — even though they are thoroughly checked to get their permit again at that age.

In my own case, as a handicapped driver with hand controls, I know that in any situation I might have a problem regardless of who caused an accident. It cost me more than a thousand bucks for my controls and another thousand for special driver training and I keep to the speed limit, too.

I have a word for the scofflaw who followed me so closely in a red truck last Friday from the driving range to the school entrance — but I don't think the Echo would publish it.

High school students once again put others ahead of themselves

The following letter was first sent to the Stephen Lewis Foundation.

Dear Stephen Lewis:

My name is Darrell Dobson, and I am a teacher at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School in Haliburton. I am delighted to write to you today in order to make a donation on behalf of our school community and to inform you of the educational and fundraising activities in which we have been engaging.

During the 2006-2007 school year, we implemented a program at our school that we call HHSS Global Partnerships, in which we seek to draw student attention to an issue of global importance. In its inaugural year we made AIDS in Africa the focus of our educational and fundraising activities and adapted a theme of "Silence is Not Enough." We undertook a number of initiatives, involving 15 or more teachers and, at times, the entire student body of approximately seven hundred and fifty students.

Sweet, sweet strawberry social

Good food and good times were on the menu at the 34th annual Strawberry Social at YMCA Camp Wanakita recently. Ron Tenthoey, head of food services, said there was enough food for 1,100 people, which the social has served in the past. After enjoying a delicious lunch in the dining hall, patrons were invited to explore all the camp's facilities for free. At left: six-year camp veteran Annie Webber, 18, of Burlington serves up some of the strawberry desserts in the dining hall. Above: Come on in! The big banner welcomed guests. Below: Soyers Lake cottager Matt Coccimiglio, 9, enjoyed his strawberry shortcake with three-year-old brother John.

The kids of Gooderham gather around the banner they made for Canadian troops in Afghanistan.

Watch out! Seven-year-old Shaina calls herself the Canadian Vampire.

Gooderham celebrated Canada Day with facepainting, games, books, and a banner bound for Canadian troops in Afghanistan. The colourful banner includes photos and letters from local children and will be sent along with military deployment packages, said event organizer Jennifer Horner. "We thought (the military) were just going to leave it at the base in Petawawa for the troops leaving, but they're going one step further." The community centre was also abuzz with local authors showcasing their work for Authors' Day.

Hi ho, hi ho, off to Grade 1 I go

Teens come to aid of Africa

Here is a brief description of the highlights:

- The Grade 12 drama class created a 40-minute performance piece that introduced the students to information and stories arising from the AIDS crisis in Africa. They performed for the entire student body, which was rapt and moved by the experience.

- We held a Dance-a-thon, in which 50 volunteer students raised a minimum of $50 in pledges and then danced for seven hours straight.

- We held a Day of Silence in which over 100 volunteer students raised a minimum of $10 in pledges to go through the entire school day without speaking.

- We held a coin drive in which students brought in coins and paper money each day for a week.

- Drama students attending a play production in Toronto (a six-hour round trip) paid for a coach bus but then travelled on a school bus. We raised $800 this way (40 students at $20 a student—the difference in the cost per student).

- We held a weekly dress down day wherein for $2 teachers were able to wear blue jeans and students were allowed to wear their hats (neither of which is part of the usual dress code).

The staff and students here were inspired by your own work in responding to this AIDS crisis. Stirred by your example and work, our students have learned better to consider the plight of others and also that they can take action in the world to improve the situation of others — and thereby live more fully and humanely themselves.

Please find enclosed cheques totalling $7,784.67. It's not nearly enough. Thank you for your ongoing good work and for that of all those involved in your foundation here and in Africa.

Geocaching provides hours of fun for the entire family

To the Editor:

Three cheers to the innovative people in Highlands East who have put the communities in the eastern part of the county on the map as the Geocaching Capital of Canada.

As well as providing hours of fun and physical activity for local families, visitors are now taking notice of the new Geocaching Capital signs.

Kudos to the committee for making use of the existing town boundary signs rather than creating unnecessary additional signage. These signs result in greater awareness of Geocaching and a higher profile for our communities.

Happy Geocaching everyone!

In the past few years, the couple has become increasingly frustrated by the activities of K.J. Beamish Construction. The company operates the current gravel pit and is responsible for the proposal to create an asphalt plant on the same site.

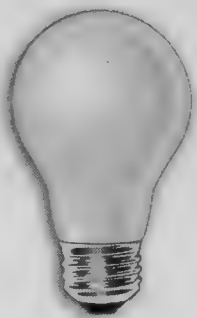

"I hate travelling behind a gravel truck," Angela said. She described how she and her husband often make the trip to Irondale on a motorcycle with a sidecar. Even her dogs wear goggles during the drive. But along County Road 503 where the pit is located, she occasionally finds the most scenic leg of the trip ruined by a gravel truck that sends rocks flying toward them.

Many of the women and men attending the protest were meeting each other for the first time. The fight against the proposal has unfolded primarily online through an e-mail list driven by people like Cathy Logan.

With a cottage about one kilometre from the gravel pit, Logan says her family will sell their property if the asphalt plant is approved. The fight against the proposal has already changed her perspective on the area, as she takes a more cynical look at local bureaucracy.

"Politically it's the wild wild west up here and we're sick of it," she said. Her sign read "Skott can be Bott", a stab at local Member of Provincial Parliament Laurie Scott who has chosen not to take a stance on the issue.

The protesters were joined by an environmental lawyer who is helping Logan and other concerned landowners wade through the policy involved in the proposal. Lorraine Land said she is baffled by the prospect of an asphalt plant in cottage country. "I understand development and this to me is a snow job," she said. "If someone could tell me what the merit is, I would listen."

Land said she was stunned to learn that the municipality of Highlands East had approved the proposal, noting that if local properties are devalued and landowners sell, the tax base will crumble.

While the municipality has allowed the proposal to move forward, the final decision rests in the hands of the Ministry of Natural Resources since the site is on Crown land. Area supervisor Sam Itani is looking at the potential impact of an asphalt plant, especially in relation to a wetland that lies south of the pit.

With so much weight put on the environmental factors of the plant, some scientists have begun to question how the decision was ever made to turn the land into an aggregates quarry.

Brent Wootton earned his doctorate in the Highlands by studying the ecology of streams. Last year he submitted a challenge to the Environmental Bill of Rights stating that the gravel pit violated the province's commitment to the protection of wetlands.

"There were loopholes allowing them to not really find out if the environment was significant," he said, noting that the ministry should err on the side of caution when making decisions about development. The gravel pit has a stream running by it that begins at a beaver pond and flows into a wetland south of the site. Wootton said the beaver pond and the stream were not properly assessed for fish and other wildlife species before the pit was approved.

"You can't tell me there weren't fish in there," he said.

After the challenge was considered by the Environmental Commissioner, it was passed onto MNR for a review. The area supervisor at the time, Bill Hutson, responded to Wootton's concerns with a point-by-point breakdown of the decision.

The MNR maintains that there were no fish on the site. In 1999 the ministry performed a site inspection before issuing the aggregates permit in 2000. The inspection concluded that the stream was too shallow and intermittently dry to allow for fish populations.

"The presence of water does not necessarily equate with fish or fish habitat," said Jane Sirois, a representative of MNR, adding: "There was never any deviation from the provincial standards policy."

This past June, MNR revisited the site to assess whether Beamish was operating in an environmentally conscious manner. The MNR requested that the company move its rock piles farther back from the stream to create a 30-metre protection zone. They have also requested that a silt curtain be put in place to reduce runoff of sediments to the wetland downstream.

Although MNR believes the site has been developed in compliance with its regulations, its final decision on the asphalt plan will be affected by public input. Sirois said the decision has been delayed to take public concerns into account.

The group plans to make their voice even stronger with a planned protest later this summer outside of Scott's office in Lindsay.

Grads bid farewell to HHSS

MELISSA MANCINI

Staff Reporter

Graduates, guests, family members, friends and teachers filled the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School gymnasium to celebrate the accomplishments of the class of 2007 on Friday night.

Continuing the personal victories that graduates had achieved over the past four years was the focus of Principal Gary Brohman's message to the class.

"Each one of us has a personal victory in us each day. Each one of us can make a significant impact on the world around us-if you so choose," Brohman told the class.

He encouraged the class to continue to work hard.

"I believe that we generally get from life what we give to life. I believe that good things happen to those willing to put in the effort, exercise good discipline and make sacrifices to reach a common good."

He asked them to continue to reach

"Make sure you help to look after our planet whether it be in the area of poverty issues, disease control, the spread of war or global warming," said Brohman. "We all must take care of each other."

Both Brohman and valedictorian Melanie Shapiera called attention to the significant commitment that the graduating class had on the community and the world beyond the past few years.

Haliburton High students raised

$8,000 as part of their AIDS in Africa fundraiser this year. The 30-Hour Famine held at the school raised over $6,000. Both speakers also noted the contributions of graduating students that took part in the recent Relay for Life.

a time," said Shapiera.

Shapiera urged her classmates to make a difference with their career choices and use those diverse life choices to help others. She called on her fellow graduates to treat everyday like it was earth day and to work hard to make the earth a cleaner place.

"All of us can make a difference in the world in one way or another," said Shapiera.

Both speeches ended with wild applause from many in the crowd. Audience members yelled and whistled and students tossed their diplomas in the air. Brohman received a standing ovation from his departing students. Shapiera was honoured with an ovation from her peers, teachers and many other audience members.

The ceremony ended with a call from the master of ceremonies Duncan Luciak. Luciak is leaving HHSS and being the master of ceremonies was his last duty at the school.

"Once a hawk," he said proudly into the microphone.

"Always a hawk," replied the graduating class.

Be aware of weather

heat waves will likely be chased by stormy weather. "Masses of hot hazy humid air fuels storm development," Coulson explained.

The region was hit with three tornadoes last summer, leaving a trail of fallen trees that can still be traced today. Luckily, Coulson doesn't expect that to become a regular occurrence. He said the Highlands are no more vulnerable to a tornado than any other part of Ontario.

Still, he urges people to be prepared for severe storms, especially when camping outdoors. In the case of a tornado, Coulson said people in a home or cottage should seek shelter in a room with the most walls between them and the outside. Ideally, this room would be free of windows.

When camping, he said people should pick out a safe spot while the weather's calm, so they don't find themselves deciding on shelter in a state of panic. Instead of relying on instincts, Coulson said campers need to leave the warmth of their sleeping bag where they may feel a false sense of security.

"Grab your flashlight and go to a stand of trees. Just make sure they're uniform in height."

County explains taxes

The County of Haliburton has joined eight other Eastern Ontario municipalities in an advertising campaign to better inform taxpayers about the full range of programs and services that are supported by property taxes.

"In Ontario, almost half of property tax dollars pay for provincial programs and responsibilities, including health and social services," says Warden Murray Fearrey. "As a result, we pay property taxes that are about $250 per person higher than other Canadians."

"It is important for people to have a transparent understanding of what their property taxes pay for, particularly when we look at challenges such as infrastructure investment and environmental protection," Fearrey added. "Current funding arrangements are not sustainable for municipalities and we are urging the province to help us refocus property taxes back toward core municipal programs and services."

Cost-sharing arrangements will be a topic of discussion during the provincial election later this year. Change is needed to ensure municipalities can deliver their core responsibilities on a sustainable basis. Ontario municipalities are currently working with the province on a joint review of how government services are funded.

"The better taxpayers understand these basic funding arrangements, the better able they are to hold governments accountable for the use of their tax dollars," added Fearrey.

Canoeing Canadian!

This patriotically painted canoe was spotted at a residence along Water St. in Minden on Canada Day. While there may not have been a for sale sign on the wooden wonder the owner likely had a few offers.

West Guilford celebrates Canada Day in style

- Story and photos by Greg Hoekstra -

There's nothing quite like a small town Canada Day celebration, and this past Sunday, West Guilford showed why it's known as one of the best places to celebrate July 1 in the Highlands.

The day was filled with fun events for the young and old alike, including sack races, scavenger hunts, swimming, tug-of-war, the Clarence Bain Memorial Horseshoe Tournament, and of course, a breath-taking fireworks display that shimmered in the reflection of Guilford's Pine Lake. (This was the first year the fireworks were set off from the lake, due to recently-introduced fire regulations).

Of course, Canada Day in West Guilford also marks the one day of the year when the community honours and outstanding community member and presents them with the Carol Stamp Citizen Award for Service to the Community – commonly known as the "Citizen of the Year Award." For 2007, that honour went to Bill and Myra Marshall, who said it was a "total surprise" to hear their names called.

"I was waiting for them to call someone else's name," laughed Myra after receiving the award. "I wasn't expecting it to be me!"

Bill agreed with his wife, and said that "stunned is really the only word to describe it."

Despite their modesty, the Marshalls – who have lived in the area permanently since 1992 – have deeply rooted themselves in the West Guilford. Within a year of retiring to the area from Toronto, the couple became actively involved with the Community Centre, and Bill having been the committee's chairperson for the past 14 years.

During their time in West Guilford the Marshalls have helped with a number of projects to improve the centre, including the installation of new flooring (twice), adding air conditioning to the building, and bringing in an elevator that was wheelchair accessible through community donations and Trillium Funding. In the near future, they say the centre's committee would also like to erect an outdoor pavilion behind the centre, where a number of trees once stood before last year's tornadoes.

"I guess we just didn't feel like sitting around and doing nothing," says Bill with a laugh, reminiscing about how they first got involved. "But in all seriousness, we're honoured and proud that they would think of us as deserving for this award."

Honours also went to Jackie Morrison and Kyle Cox, who took home the first-place trophy in the horseshoe tournament. In second place were Larry Miscio and Kenton Bain, while Barry Miscio and Carl Lodge came in third.

For their delicious treats, Karlene Cooney was awarded first place, Shirley Johnston came second, and Shirley Sisson was third in the pie-baking contest.

Phrona Sisson was the oldest woman in attendance, and also the one with the most descendants present. Meanwhile, Ray Sisson was the oldest man celebrating with the crowd.

Logan Stamp was the youngest boy and Lauren Fahlinger the youngest girl, while the flag raisers for the day were Johnathan Morrison and Victoria Allin.

Bill and Myra Marshall were chosen as the 2007 West Guilford Citizens of the Year for their community spirit.

Above: West Guilford's finest young women tug and toil during a tug-of-war against a group of boys in their age bracket. It was a hard-fought battle, but the girls eventually toppled the boys.

Left: Joe Boice, 4, was one of only a handful of kids brave enough to swim in the waters of Pine Lake, due to chilly temperatures throughout the day. Joe had a great time splashing around with his yellow boogie board.

Right: Laura Heslop, 4, is cheered on by friends and family as she makes a made dash for the finish line during a foot race for three and four year olds.

Jocelyn Regina and Evan Sapach give the audience a taste of what to expect in the Highlands Summer Festival's opening production, The Fantasticks.

Hosts Mike Jaycock and Jack Brezina interview David Mills about the new season of theatre. Brezina also announced Canoe FM's new contest, the eight wonders of Haliburton County. Listeners are asked to nominate and vote for two of their favourite places in each of the county's four municipalities.

Live from Wilberforce...

The Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre in Wilberforce set the stage for a summer of entertaining radio when it hosted the inaugural Highlands Radio Almanac on Saturday morning. Going live over 100.9 Canoe FM, the two-hour program was a compendium of music, story-telling and community spirit. The show continues throughout the summer at various locations throughout the Highlands.

Bottom right: The crowd's toes were kept tapping to the bluegrass sounds Dean Card and Gerrard Mumford.

If you think you'd like to do some on-air work, host a show, do the news or be a voice for commercials, Canoe FM would love to hear from you.

It is likely that many people in the performing arts have thought this might be a fun thing to do. It is. If you are comfortable in front of an audience and like to perform this might be a volunteer outlet that you'd enjoy. Canoe is always on the lookout for new talent as, now and again, their volunteer base changes.

Showers can't dampen spirits of revellers at Canada Day celebrations

Showers didn't dampen the spirit of the Canada Day celebrations here. A good crowd led by Margaret Jeske sang a rousing rendition of the national anthem after the Legion and Legion Auxiliary members had performed the flag-raising ceremony at the Wilberforce Outpost Museum. Cake, ice cream and socializing were also a good part of the festivities. The Wilberforce Heritage Guild thanks all who participated in celebrating Canada's 140 years as a nation.

The United Church workers had excellent attendance at their annual strawberry supper. It was a great occasion to meet folks and visit while enjoying a tasty meal. It was good to see the Rev John Sloan, a former area United Church minister, and his wife Ellie there.

The first Canoe FM Radio Almanac Road Show of the summer went off well. Broadcast live from the Lloyd Watson Centre on Saturday, June 30, it was hosted by Mike Jaycock, Joan Cameron and Jack Brezina. Among those featured were Mary Barker discussing geocaching, Steve Galea of the Echo, Jim Blake, story teller, David Mills of the Haliburton Summer Festival. Hilda Clark talked about the Red Cross Outpost National Historic Site programs and Loop Troupe activities. Entertaining both the live and radio audiences were Gerrard Mumford and

Two lead performers from the upcoming Festival musical The Fantastiks sang "Soon It's Gonna Rain" accompanied on keyboard by Melissa Stephens. Melissa also spoke about the Highlands Opera Studio taking place in August under the direction of Canadian Opera tenor Richard Margison. Best wishes to Canoe FM for a successful summer of Saturday morning Road Shows and thanks for the fine show from Wilberforce.

There is a great new shop in town. It is the Cottage Cushion Gallery located on Schofield Drive behind Remax. And yes, Lynda Wootan's cushions, jewellery, bed linens and home decor items are available for shoppers. Very much part of this endeavour are several other people: Eva Linkert's ceramics and porcelain dolls, Charlene McConnell's pottery, Jutta Dombroskie's embroidered denim bags and quilts, Patricia Clarke's water colour art, Wally Fox's wood carvings and Glen Ward's furniture art.

The shop is open daily from 10 to 5 Monday to Thursday with longer hours on weekends. Congratulations and best wishes to this group of creative people as its business grows and evolves.

What a wonderful lot of people one encounters when volunteering. On a recent Saturday morning on the verandah at Agnew's General Store many generous people stopped to chat and buy Heritage Guild quilt tickets. Also at that location another person was volunteering. Bob McKay of Maple Lake was accepting donations for HERS which is the Haliburton Emergency Rural Safespace.

Bob had organized an all male Tag Day in which over twenty men volunteered at various locations in the county to show their support for HERS which is operated by the YWCA of Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton Counties. It "exists to support women and their families to live free from violence, poverty and oppression". For assistance in Haliburton County call YWCA at 705-286-6442 or 1-800-461-7556. These numbers do not have call display and 1-800 numbers will not show up on phone bills. We hope the efforts of Bob and his team were as successful as mine were for Outpost activities. Thanks to Agnew's and all who supported the volunteers and their causes.

Art Hive cuts the ribbon at opening ceremony

Many people had company over the weekend; I can only report on the ones I have heard of.

Lynn Stamp from Orangeville was home with her mother Faye.

Terry and Wendy Hicks had their son Jason home with his wife Kelly of Toronto.

Susan Norcross had two of her three daughters home: April and Scott of Guelph and Catherine and her guest from Burlington.

Ken and Valerie Chumbley's company was their daughter Laura Jane, children Willem and Miranda. On Wednesday of last week, Laura Jane and children, Cathy Chumbley and children Jocelyn and Kara, Bethany Mawbey and girls, Jillian and Hailey, Angela Chumbley and girls, Erin and Kelly travelled to Bracebridge for a wonderful day in the sun with Valerie and Leslie Chumbley.

The Art Hive on Highway 118 opened in fine style at 11 a.m. on Saturday June 30 to 100 guests at the ribbon cutting ceremony. Was Tom Welch's ghost hovering around to see what had become of his store?

It was great to arrive and step up to Barry Heywood's tent of enthusiastic drummers under his expert guidance. Such a sense of fun for young and older alike!

In another tent Lisa Barry kept her pottery wheel a-humming, while Sheila Ziman's skilled workmanship created basketry alongside Faye Wilkinson's experienced mask-making.

Indoors as well, quality shone everywhere. Pottery by Lisa, April Gates, and Sharon Lynch, painting by April, textiles by Sandi Luck, jewellery by Erin Lynch, wrought iron, signage and drawings by Tracey Green, and masks by Faye Wilkinson. All were tastefully and attractively displayed by this Maple Lake Artisans Collective.

Dozens streamed in during the day and it is certain that many more will welcome the chance to visit this unique centre.

Congratulations to those who brought this all into being with foresight, creativity and imagination.

Centre News: the committee met on June 27th to finalize plans for Canada Day, much credit again going to Cheryl Cooper for this, and to attend to other pertinent business.

A person is needed to man the snack bar on bingo nights.

There's a great need for a new president come September, when Bill Marshall's resignation, accepted with much regret, becomes official.

There were 41 tables at the May craft sale, many wooden crafts being offered.

Thanks from the committee to everyone involved in purchasing and setting up of the baby seat swing, which makes it now safe for the littlest swingers.

Euchre continues to be popular, 35 being present on June 26th when Ivan Kernohan set a record score of 97 in nine lone hands.

Ray Sisson had eight lone hands.

Pearl Kernohan achieved ladies' high score and Tina Hadley had five lone hands.

Carol and Lyle Stamp entertained their family on June 27 for their granddaughter's second birthday. Ella's parents are Carrie Hirst and Mark Stamp. Congratulations to the happy little girl.

Congratulations to the Guilford graduates of the Ontario Secondary School program at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

• Max Manbridge, son of Don and Sandra Ambridge.

• Andrew Flowers, son of Peggie and Dave Flowers.

• Kala Journeaux, daughter of Michelle and the late Tom Journeaux.

• Devan McConnell, son of Darlene and Dale McConnell.

• Sarah Wrightman, daughter of Charlene English and Steve Wrightman.

• and Andy Cooper, son of Karen and Russell Morrison and grandson of Murray and Zelda Cooper.

Please let me know if I've missed any names. 754-2278.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

APPEALING PROPERTY TAX

QUESTION: How do you appeal the property tax assessment on your home?

ANSWER: If you think that your assessment is too high, your first step is to visit your local assessor and get a copy of the report on your home. Check it for obvious errors in math, size, number of bathrooms, etc. If simple errors were made, the assessors may correct them then and there.

Assessments are subjective, sometimes arbitrary and can certainly contain errors. An appeal may save you hundreds of dollars per year.

Nationwide, less than 2% of all property assessments are challenged. In the vast majority of cases, those who do appeal get their taxes cut. It's certainly worth the effort.

IF YOU THINK the tax assessment on your home is too high, think about appealing it.

Donating life

Donor Larry Case from Moore Falls is a regular donor and he brought his 20-year-old apprentice Ben Saunders, pictured at left, for the first time. The Canadian Blood Services made one of six stops in Haliburton this year for their blood clinic at the Haliburton Legion on June 25. "Haliburton is a great collection spot," said Donna Davidson, the clinic supervisor. "More accidents happen during the summer than other time, so blood is in higher demand." For this draw the clinic was hoping for 135 units of blood and the 162 pre-booked appointments indicated that goal would be met easily. Walk-ins were also accepted.

Grab your ball glove and head to Harcourt

This past week I had the opportunity to share special time with a host of excited graduates and their very proud families. It is such a exhilarating time for these young people as they leave their present school and prepare to move along to another or go out into the world of work. I wish each graduate much joy and passion as they go forth to meet their future. To all the young people: have a safe and enjoyable summer!

Next weekend marks Harcourt's 9th Annual Mixed Three-Pitch Tournament and we have a line up of many great things taking place.

On Friday evening July 6th, the tournament weekend starts with two games out on Harcourt's ball diamond located behind the community centre. Over the weekend twelve teams will be playing a total of 22 games. The first game starts at 8:00 p.m. on Friday with Harcourt Hotties vs. Wilberforce. Saturday morning's game starts at 8:00 a.m. with games continuing throughout the day until 8:00 p.m.. Sunday morning games start at 10:00 a.m.. "B" Semi-final game starts at 1:00 p.m. and "A" Semi-final starts at 2:00 p.m.. "B" Championship Game starts at 3:00 p.m. and "A" Championship Game starts at 4:00 p.m.

Come out and cheer your favourite teams while enjoying some traditional ball-park food like hamburgers and hot dogs. You can enjoy the game and refreshments at the Bavarian Garden.

Also on Friday evening inside the Harcourt Community Centre, the Bingo Committee will be set to host this summer's Big Bingo. There will be two $500.00 jackpot prizes plus numerous other smaller prizes to be won. So get your bingo daubers ready and head over to the Harcourt Community Centre for an exciting evening. Doors open at 5:30 p.m.. Games get under way at 7:00 p.m.. For more information call: Debbie Shatraw at 448 3155. Players must be 18 years old.

On Saturday evening come out to the Baseball Tournament Dance starting at 8:00 p.m. at the Harcourt Community Centre. Admission is only $10.00 per person. The much sought-after Kent Boys Band will be on hand to play. Don't miss out on some great sounds that Garland "Poor Pely" Pellerin; Bradley "Bradleyboy" MacArthur and Darren "Clarky" Clarke have in store for you.

And what has influenced these young men and their unique music? Johnny Cash, people who litter, boarded up buildings, grass fires, hillbilly swimming holes, prisons, back sheds, front porches, graffiti, people who choose Prozac over change, and Bob Dylan. These are just a few things that have inspired their music and along with their eclectic vibe and incredible talent. These young men are sure to provide an unbelievable evening of fine music. Their ability to play in country venues to devout country fans and also play in punk venues to committed punk fans shows their wide-ranging talent and crossover potential. Banjo licks, acoustic strumming, foot stomping rhythms and wild harmonies are sure to have you jumping on the Kent Boys train. Harcourt Community Centre at 8:00 p.m. is the place to be this Saturday night for a great evening of fun and fine entertainment.

The next scheduled Highlands East Paint In event is to be held Saturday July 14 at the Red Cross Outpost in Wilberforce from 11 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Please RSVP Claire Loft to let her know if you will be attending the Red Cross Outpost Day by calling 705 448 2550. The museum provides a lunch and needs to know numbers in advance. Linda wishes everyone a super month and reminds everyone to keep painting.

The Schoolhouse Historical Society will be meeting July 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Highland Grove Community Centre. It's "Show & Tell Night". Everyone is invited to bring along their family and community research to share with the group. They can also bring along a genealogical problem that they would like some help in solving. New members are welcome.

In memoriam

In Memory of our dear Grandpa Max who passed away on July 2, 2006.

It's been a year since you've been gone, although it seems like only yesterday. This year has been hard. You were such a big part of our lives. We shared alot of love and laughter, and we shared some tears. You were always there for me, no matter what. I miss seeing your warm eyes and that bright smile that was always on your face. You made me smile. I will never forget you, and I will cherish every single moment that I had with you as my grandpa. We love you and miss you.

- Love Ashley, Myles, Jesse & McKenna

SISSON, Max - In loving memory of a dear Grandfather and great-grandfather who passed away July 2, 2006. Loving and kind in all his ways, upright and just to the end of his days. Sincere and kind in heart and mind. What a beautiful memory he left behind.
- Love Amber, John and Brock

SISSON, Max - In loving memory of a dear husband who passed away July 2, 2006.
